Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The termination of temporary resident status by the Director, California Service Center, is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director terminated the applicant's temporary resident status because the applicant failed to file the application for adjustment of status from temporary to permanent residence within the 43-month application period.

On appeal, the applicant indicates that she has been residing in the United States for many years as a law-abiding individual.

The status of an alien lawfully admitted for temporary residence under section 245A(a)(1) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (INA) may be terminated at any time if the alien fails to file for adjustment of status from temporary to permanent resident on Form I-698 within forty-three months of the date he/she was granted status as a temporary resident. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(u)(1)(iv).

The applicant was granted temporary resident status on [REDACTED]. The 43-month eligibility period for filing for adjustment expired on [REDACTED]. The Application for Adjustment of Status from Temporary to Permanent Resident (Form I-698) was filed on [REDACTED]. The director therefore denied the untimely I-698 application, and subsequently terminated the applicant's temporary resident status.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, or the Service (now Citizenship and Immigration Services, or CIS) and private voluntary organizations widely publicized the procedures of the amnesty program, including the necessity of applying for permanent residence. If the applicant required assistance in pursuing his application, such assistance was widely available with inquiries to the Service, from private nonprofit Qualified Designated Entities, and from private legal assistance resources. Furthermore, the original eligibility period of 31 months was extended to 43 months to better enable applicants to file timely applications. The burden to duly file the I-698 application in a timely manner remains with the applicant. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.3(d).

The statements on appeal have been considered. Nevertheless, there is no waiver available, even for humanitarian reasons, of the requirements stated above. As the applicant has not overcome the grounds for termination of status, the appeal must be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
